

SecurExchange AutoContent™ Edition

Signatures, Disclaimers, and Branding for Exchange Server 2010, 2007, 2003, & 2000

It's never been more important to ensure a consistent look and feel to your corporate electronic communications - and to protect both yourself and your business from the potentially disastrous costs and consequences that could result from something as simple as forgetting to include a required disclaimer. That's why both the SecurExchange Corporate™ and SecurExchange Perimeter™ products from Nemx Software Corporation include our flexible AutoContent Manager, which lets you automatically insert a corporate signature, disclaimer or other predefined text or graphics to the beginning or end of a message.

The enormous popularity and usefulness of this feature have made it an irresistible part of our comprehensive e-mail and content monitoring solutions. But for those who only need this feature and nothing else, SecurExchange AutoContent™ Edition now makes this time-saving, risk-reducing capability available to everyone as a separately priced, individual member of our SecurExchange™ product family.

If you want to guarantee that:

- All messages from your accounting department include an appropriate financial disclaimer;
- All outgoing messages have a consistent look and feel to help promote your image and brand;
- Internal disclaimers are used to classify confidential information; and/or
- The terms for special promotions or offers are absolutely consistent, and added to every message sent from your sales or marketing teams.
